Bunker signed the building contract for the Pine Grove Cemetery Chapel during his tenure as Mayor. Records show that Bunker ran unsuccessfully for the Mayor's office when he tried again in 1924. At that time, he ran against incumbent Leon O. Tebbets, Democrat.

The above photo was found while going through the City Planner's files in 2014. The photo was taken in 1908 and Mayor Luther G. Bunker, can be seen in the center at the railing. The majority of the men in the picture are wearing ribbons; we do know what group or organization they are affiliated with. Mayor Bunker was a member of several organizations so these men could be members of one of the groups. It is also interesting to note the light stanchions shown at the top of each set of stairs, which are not seen in other pictures at City Hall.

15. Frank Redington — Mayor of Waterville, 1909. Republican.
16. Norman K. Fuller — Mayor of Waterville, 1910. Democrat.

24. Leon O. Tebbetts — Mayor of Waterville, 1922-24. Democrat. Candidate for U.S. Representative from Maine 3rd District, 1922, 1924. Mayor Tebbetts had successfully run for the office of Mayor earlier, in 1919. However, in an unprecedented move, he resigned from office just days after the election. "In a down-to-the-wire race between two popular candidates, Tebbetts defeated the Republican incumbent, Everett C. Wardwell by one vote, 1,084 to 1,083! Surveying the situation, Tebbetts couldn't glory in the outcome. The election results revealed that he was the only member of his political party to win a major race. Republicans had scored triumphs in every one of the contests for the Board of Aldermen. The odds were there would be some torrid battles in the governmental process. The outlook was anything but promising. So, Tebbetts made a historic decision. He relinquished all claim to the office to which he had been elected. The action came after he had been issued a certificate of election." (Morning Sentinel, 8/17/1994)

Tebbets was later elected Mayor three times from 1922 through 1924 (one-year terms). In 1922, he ran against Chester W. Getchell and won by more than a thousand votes – the biggest majority ever given to a candidate up to that time.

Catholic. Associations: Elks; Knights of Columbus; Lambda Chi Alpha; Phi Delta Phi; American Bar Association.

28. L. (Lorenzo) Eugene Thayer — Mayor of Waterville, 1933-34. Born in Waterville, Maine, March 8, 1883. Democrat. Son of Frank L. Thayer and Nora (Pulsifer) Thayer; married, January 9, 1907, to Florence Merrill. Thayer, a Waterville native and Colby College graduate, was one of the founders of the Morning Sentinel in 1904 and served as its business manager. He headed the local Federal Relief Administration, helping the needy and unemployed, and was affiliated with several insurance companies. He also was a director of People’s National Bank and was a member of several social and civic organizations, including the Waterville Rotary Club, according to a story in the Morning Sentinel’s Sept. 4, 1934, edition. His other associations included the Freemasons. He was elected mayor in 1933 and re-elected in the spring of 1934 by the largest majority in the city’s history, according to the story. Thayer at various times also served as the city’s auditor, tax collector and treasurer, and was a member of the city’s Common Council. Thayer is the only City of Waterville Mayor to have died during his tenure. He died on September 3, 1934, at the age of 51, of a cerebral hemorrhage. He had been in the hospital nearly two months receiving treatment for Bright’s Disease. Mourners packed the Unitarian Church for his funeral on Sept. 5, 1934, with hundreds of people flowing out onto the street. Colby College's dean, Ernest C. Marriner, delivered the eulogy, saying Thayer was a "private citizen in public service" and a "Christian gentleman in politics. He inspired faith and confidence in those with whom he dealt that the city of Waterville would, given time, pull through this depression with a clean slate and would meet all its obligations. In administering the general affairs of the city, he was faithful and efficient."

The City's Annual Report from 1935 mentions the decision to rename the Gilman Street Bridge for Thayer after his death. He was a hard-working mayor who was in office during the Great Depression and was successful in re-establishing the city's damaged credit after banks had closed, the Report said. A bronze plaque was erected on Thayer Memorial Bridge (a/k/a the Gilman Street Bridge) in 1934 in his honor. The plaque was stolen from the bridge sometime on the 1960's or '70's and returned to the City in May of 2015 (See the Morning Sentinel article of May 9, 2015) The plaque is expected to be reinstalled on the bridge during a rededication ceremony in September, 2015. Eugene Thayer is interred at the Pine Grove Cemetery in Waterville.

29. Robert M. Jackson — Mayor of Waterville, 1935-37. Republican.

30. Paul A. Dundas — Mayor of Waterville, 1938-1943. Democrat. Dundas served the greatest number of terms as mayor, serving six (6) one-year terms. Delegate to Democratic National Convention from Maine, 1940. Paul Alexander Dundas was born on January 11, 1894, in Clinton, Massachusetts. He was the son of John Henry Dundas and Elizabeth Ann Magee. He married Mary C. "Beckie" Clarkin on 24 May 1922. Paul died on April 11, 1977, at the age of 82. Obituary.

31. George J. Doyle — Mayor of Waterville, 1945. Democrat. Alternate delegate to Democratic National Convention from Maine, 1944.

32. H.C. Marden – Mayor of Waterville, 1946-1947. Harold Chesterfield (HC) Marden was born in East Vassalboro, Maine, on July 28, 1900. He graduated from Colby College in 1921 and Harvard Law School in 1925, practicing on the second floor of the Edith Building in downtown Waterville, (over FW Woolworth's), in association with Cyril Joly, Sr., an Industrial Accident Commissioner (called "Judge"). Marden married Dorothy Harlow, a graduate of the New Conservatory of Music who became the director of music for the Waterville and Winslow school systems. HC was in the State Senate and a candidate for Attorney General when the Maine National Guard was called to active duty for divisional training for a year in 1940 (Louisiana Maneuvers). He was the State Adjutant at the time, (not Adjutant General). Pearl Harbor changed the term of duty from one year to the duration of the war. He served in the South Pacific with the 43rd Infantry Division attaining the rank of Colonel at the time of separation. Marden was the first Waterville mayor to be elected under a two-year term system when the City decided to end one-year terms. He didn't serve the full two-years, however, because of a change in the time of elections. In 1953, he was appointed to the Maine Superior Court going on to an appointment to the Maine Supreme Judicial Court in 1962. HC Marden's son, Donald Marden, followed in his footsteps, becoming the 39th mayor of Waterville.

33. Russell Squire – Mayor of Waterville, 1948-1951. Republican. Became mayor in 1948 defeating a young Democrat Edmund S. Muskie. This was Muskie’s only setback in an illustrious career as governor, U.S. Senator and U.S. Secretary of State.
34. Richard J. Dubord — Mayor of Waterville, 1952-55. Democrat. A native of Waterville, Mayor Dubord was a prominent lawyer who became the City’s youngest mayor at the age of 30. Son of former Mayor F. Harold Dubord. Member of the Credentials Committee of the Democratic National Conventions of 1956, 1960 and 1965; Attorney General for the State of Maine, 1965-66.
35. Clinton Amos Clauson — a/k/a Clinton A. Clauson — Mayor of Waterville, 1956-57. Democrat. Born in Mitchell, Iowa, March 28, 1895. Democrat. Served in the U.S. Army during World War I; chiropractor; delegate to Democratic National Convention from Maine, 1956; Governor of Maine, 1959; died in office 1959. Associations: American Legion; Freemasons; Odd Fellows; Newcomen Society. Died December 30, 1959. Interment at Pine Grove Cemetery, Waterville, Maine.

37. Cyril Joly, Jr. — Mayor of Waterville, 1962-1965. Republican. Born at Mount St. Joseph Hospital on May 22, 1925, to Cyril M. Joly and Lorrette La Pointe Joly. He attended local schools and served as president of his senior class at Waterville High School. Graduated from Colby College. Joly enlisted in the Army and served honorably in France with the 66th Panther Infantry Division during World War II and was discharged as staff sergeant. He graduated from Boston University Law School in 1951 and practiced law with his father's firm of Joly and Marden for two years before leaving for Washington, D.C., where he joined the staff of the Republican National Committee. Joly then became special assistant to the Secretary of Health, Welfare and Education under Oveta Culp Hobby. After two years he moved to New York City and became the first Director of public affairs for the National Association of Manufacturers. In 1960, he took a leave of absence to return to Washington to work for the “Nixon For President” campaign. In 1961 he returned to Maine and was elected mayor of Waterville that fall, serving four years. He was also a member of the State Senate in 1973 and 1974. For many years Joly served as president of the Waterville Historical Society, and Mount St. Joseph Nursing Home's advisory board. He was also a longtime Waterville Public Library trustee, member of the Mount Merici Advisory Board and member of the American Legion, Rotary Club, Elks Club and Waterville Industrial Cooperation. Died June 6, 2004 at Mount St. Joseph. Buried at Saint Francis Catholic Cemetery in Waterville, Plot: Lot: 0037N grave 4.
38. Malcolm Fortier — Mayor of Waterville, 1966-1967.
39. Donald H. Marden — Mayor of Waterville, 1968-1969. Son of former mayor H.C. Marden. Donald graduated from Waterville High School in 1954, Cornell University in 1958 and Boston University School of Law in 1964. He was elected to the Board of Alderman (now known as the City Council), serving in 1966-67. In 1967, a referendum approved major changes to the City Charter including, but not limited to, the abolishment of what is believed to be the last bicameral legislative body in a city in the US (at that time, the City had a Board of Alderman and a Common Council.) It also removed patronage in the City employees and created a Civil Service Board. A position of City Administrator was created to provide professional assistance to the part-time Mayor. Marden went on to serve as Assistant, and then County, Attorney from 1970 to 1974 and was appointed to the Maine Superior Court in 1994.

Donald Marden

40. Richard “Spike” Carey — Mayor of Waterville, 1970-1978. Born on January 7, 1929 in Waterville, Maine, the oldest son of Augustus and Alma Carey. Augustus was a paper maker and worked on the electrical switchboard, and later became a carpenter. Alma was a police matron. Augustus served on the Waterville City Council in 1922, was the chairman of the fire department committee and served on the Board of Aldermen in 1937. Richard didn’t speak English until he was 12 years old; growing up in the Franco American community in the South End of Waterville. He graduated from Waterville High School in 1947. He worked at Forster Manufacturing until he enlisted in the Army Air Force serving from 1948 to 1952 as a senior aircraft mechanic. On June 23, 1952, he married Helen Fortin at Notre Dame Church and together they raised six children: four boys and two girls. Richard ran and developed the Maine State Lottery from 1979-1986 and was also Town Manager and Selectman in Belgrade and Waterville. He was Waterville's longest serving Mayor having served eight years, from 1970 to 1978 (four (4) two-year terms). During this time, he also represented the citizens of Waterville in the Maine House of Representatives from 1967 to 1978 and the state Senate from 1990 to 1998. To read an interview transcript with Spike Carey by Bates College Interviewer, Mike Richard, click here. Richard was a life time member of the American Legion as well as an Honorary Life member of the Knights of Columbus, Council 148. Richard died in Belgrade, Maine, on July 19, 2013, at the age of 84. 53. Nicholas Isgro — Mayor of Waterville, 2015-Present. Republican. Born at Seton Hospital in Waterville. Nick is the son of James and Susan (Carey) Isgro. His mother Susan, was raised on Ann Street in Waterville’s South End, a culturally rich French community. Her father John Carey was a contractor who built many Waterville area homes and later became the City of Waterville Code Enforcement Officer. Nick’s father, Jim, also grew up in Waterville and returned to the area after serving in the military. Jim's family moved to Waterville in 1960 when his father, Salvatore “Sam” Isgro, a former city councilor, relocated here from New York as part of a promotion with Scott Paper Company. Purchasing land from the Ursuline Sisters on upper Western Avenue, Sam built a house that now Nick resides in with his wife, Amanda, and their four children, Anthony, Sofia, Salvatore and Vito. Vito as born the day before his father’s big Election Day win in 2014! Isgro attended Temple Academy on West River Road until the fourth grade and then attended Oakland schools, graduating from Messalonskee High School in 2000. Throughout his school years he worked at maintenance jobs, pumping gas and retail sales in our community and continued working through college. After studying history at the University of Maine at Farmington, he began his career in finance with MBNA in Rockland before becoming the Controller at Skowhegan Savings Bank. Mayor Isgro was elected in November 2014 for a 3-year term and inducted into office during a traditional inaugural ceremony on January 6, 2015. Other Affiliations: Treasurer of the Maine Children’s Home for Little Wanderers.
